In early October the ROK National Democratic Party, the Chosen Democratic Party and the Taehan Nationalist Party each established special committees to organize branches of their parties in ROK-occupied North Korea to prepare for the coming elections. On approximately 10 October each of these committees obtained permission from Colonel YI Sun-kun, head of the ROK Army Information and Education Section, to send some of their members to occupied areas of North Korea attached to Information and Education units with ROK troops. Some members of each party have received orders to electioneer overtly for their party; others have been ordered to form terrorist groups, and to eliminate, if necessary, all those opposed to their party in occupied North Korea.
